Why in News?

The Lok Sabha Speaker inaugurated the two-day All India Conference of Chairpersons and Members of Public Accounts Committees (PACs) of Parliament and State/UT Legislatures in Thiruvananthapuram, Keralam.

- The central theme of the 2026 conference was “Audit, Accountability and Good Governance: The Evolving Role of PAC”.

What are the Key Highlights of the PAC Conference?

- Outcome-Driven Scrutiny: The Speaker emphasized that the PAC's responsibility extends beyond merely scrutinizing accounts and findings of the Comptroller and Auditor General (CAG).
  - Legislative committees must assess whether public expenditure has translated into tangible development for citizens on the ground.
- Fiscal Discipline as a Democratic Pillar: Fiscal discipline was termed a non-negotiable cornerstone of a healthy democracy.
  - Every rupee drawn from the public exchequer must be strictly accounted for and fully utilized for the specific purpose for which it was sanctioned.
- Digital Integration: A call was made to establish a common digital audit monitoring platform for all State Legislatures, modelled on the lines of the Indian Parliament, to ensure timely audits and track corrective actions efficiently.
- Keralam Resolution (2026): The conference called for greater cooperation among PACs, standardised timelines for Action Taken Notes and capacity-building initiatives to strengthen legislative financial oversight.

What are the Key Facts About the Public Accounts Committee?

- About: The PAC is a Parliamentary Financial Committee responsible for examining public expenditure and ensuring the Executive's financial accountability to the Legislature.
  - It is one of the three Financial Parliamentary Committees, alongside the Estimates Committee and the Committee on Public Undertakings (CoPU).
  - It is not a constitutional or statutory body. It is constituted annually under Rule 308 of the Rules of Procedure and Conduct of Business in Lok Sabha.
  - Articles 105 (Parliamentary Privileges) and 118 (Rules of Procedure) provide the broader constitutional framework for parliamentary committees.
- Historical Genesis: The PAC was first established in 1921 in the wake of the Montague-Chelmsford Reforms .
  - Initially, the Finance Member of the Executive Council (and later the Finance Minister) acted as the Chairman , which naturally restricted the free expression of views and criticism against the Executive.
- Post-Republic Shift: Following the adoption of the Constitution in 1950 , the PAC became a full-fledged Parliamentary Committee under the control of the Speaker , and the Minister of Finance was explicitly barred from membership .
- Membership Strength: The PAC consists of a maximum of 22 members, comprising 15 members elected by the Lok Sabha and 7 members elected by the Rajya Sabha (Rajya Sabha members were integrated in 1954-55).
- Method of Election: Members are elected annually based on the principle of proportional representation by means of a single transferable vote .
- Ministerial Bar: A Minister cannot be elected as a member . If a sitting member is appointed as a Minister, they automatically cease to be on the Committee.
- Opposition Leadership: Until 1966-67, a senior ruling party member headed the committee.
  - However, since 1967 , the Chairperson is appointed by the Lok Sabha Speaker. This is a parliamentary convention, not a constitutional requirement.
- Tenure: The term of office for committee members does not exceed one year .
- Primary Functions and Scope:
  - Core Mandate: It primarily examines the Appropriation Accounts (expenditure) and the Annual Finance Accounts (receipts) of the Government of India.
    - The PAC extensively examines the Reports of the CAG . The CAG is widely regarded as the "friend, philosopher, and guide" of the Committee .
  - Scrutiny Checks: It ensures that disbursed funds were legally available, applied to the intended purpose, conformed to governing authority , and that re-appropriations followed the rules.
  - Autonomous Bodies: The PAC also examines the income and expenditure statements of state corporations, trading and manufacturing schemes, and autonomous/semi-autonomous bodies audited by the CAG.
  - Qualitative Scrutiny: The Committee's examination extends beyond the formality of expenditure to assess its "wisdom, faithfulness, and economy" .
    - It actively pulls up the government on cases involving losses, nugatory expenditure, and financial irregularities .
  - Excess Grants and Savings: It examines expenditure that exceeds granted amounts, which must then be regularized by Parliament under Article 115 of the Constitution .
    - The PAC also heavily criticizes "safe" estimating (savings) , viewing it as a catalyst for waste and extravagance.

- Suo Motu Examination: The PAC may select subjects for detailed examination independently of CAG audit paragraphs, in accordance with Rule 276 of the Lok Sabha Rules.

- Action Taken Accountability: The government must furnish replies on PAC recommendations within six months to form an Action Taken Report . Furthermore, Action Taken Notes on all C&AG paragraphs must be submitted within 4 months via the online Audit Para Monitoring System (APMS) Portal to achieve zero pendency.
- Limitations: The PAC has limited powers as it conducts only post-expenditure audits. Its recommendations are non-binding, with no authority over government policy or executive decisions.

Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs)

1. When was the Public Accounts Committee established in India?
The PAC was established in 1921 following the Montague-Chelmsford Reforms. It became a full-fledged parliamentary committee after the adoption of the Constitution in 1950.

2. What is the composition of the Public Accounts Committee?
It consists of 22 members, comprising 15 from the Lok Sabha and 7 from the Rajya Sabha, elected annually through proportional representation by means of a single transferable vote.

3. Who appoints the Chairman of the PAC?
The Lok Sabha Speaker appoints the Chairman. By convention since 1967, the Chairman is selected from the Opposition.

4. What is the role of the CAG in the functioning of the PAC?
The CAG examines government accounts and submits audit reports to Parliament, which are scrutinised by the PAC to identify financial irregularities and ensure proper utilisation of public funds.

5. What is the constitutional significance of Article 115 in relation to the PAC?
Article 115 provides for supplementary, additional or excess grants. Expenditure exceeding parliamentary grants requires subsequent regularisation through Parliament.

Why in News?

World Day Against the Death Penalty has renewed debate over India's capital punishment framework , particularly the implementation of the 'Rarest of Rare' doctrine (1980) and the Supreme Court's recent emphasis on fairness, due process and constitutional safeguards during death penalty sentencing.

Summary

- World Day Against the Death Penalty highlights the need to ensure that India's 'Rarest of Rare' doctrine is implemented effectively, with fairness and constitutional safeguards in capital punishment cases.
- Despite Supreme Court guidelines, rushed sentencing, flawed investigations and inadequate consideration of reformation risk wrongful executions, highlighting the need for stronger judicial safeguards and human rights protection.

What is the Death Penalty in India?

- About: The death penalty, or capital punishment, is the highest degree of punishment awarded under the Indian penal system for the most heinous crimes.
  - Under the Indian criminal justice system, life imprisonment is the rule, and the death penalty is the exception.
- Historical & Philosophical Roots: Rooted in the concept of retributive justice (proportionate punishment for severe crimes), it finds historical mention in the Manusmriti and was formally codified under the erstwhile Indian Penal Code (1860).
- Statutory Framework: Section 354(3) of the Code of Criminal Procedure (CrPC), 1973, now Section 393(3) of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita (BNSS), 2023, mandates that judges must record "special reasons" for awarding a death sentence.
  - The Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita (BNS), 2023 retains capital punishment and notably expands it to include offences such as mob lynching (if it results in death) and the rape of a minor. Overall, around 14 grave offences, including murder, terrorism, and abetment of mutiny, attract this punishment.
- The 'Rarest of Rare' Doctrine: In the landmark Bachan Singh v. State of Punjab (1980)* case , a Constitution Bench of the Supreme Court upheld the validity of the death penalty but limited judicial discretion.
  - It established the "rarest of rare" doctrine, dictating that a death sentence can only be imposed when the alternative of life imprisonment is "unquestionably foreclosed."
- Balancing Crime and Criminal: The doctrine requires courts to weigh the aggravating circumstances (the brutality of the crime) against the mitigating circumstances (the social, psychological, and economic background of the criminal).
- Statutory Exemptions: The Indian legal system provides strict humanitarian exemptions; juveniles (under 18 at the time of the offence), pregnant women, and persons with mental illness cannot be subjected to execution.

- Mandatory Appellate Process: A death sentence handed down by a Sessions Court is not immediately final ; it must be mandatorily confirmed by the High Court before it can be executed, and the convict retains the right to appeal to the Supreme Court .
- Constitutional Clemency: Death row convicts can file a Mercy Petition seeking pardon, reprieve, or commutation from the President of India under Article 72 or the Governor under Article 161 of the Constitution.
- Final Judicial Remedy: Even after the rejection of a review petition, convicts have the right to file a Curative Petition, a final legal remedy recognized in the landmark Rupa Ashok Hurra v. Ashok Hurra (2002) judgment to prevent gross miscarriages of justice.

Evolution of Due Process in Capital Sentencing

- The Crime-Centric Era (1983–1995): Despite Bachan Singh , subsequent judgments severely diluted the focus on the individual, leading to a precarious, crime-centric jurisprudence.
  - Machhi Singh v. State of Punjab (1983): This ruling shifted the inquiry away from the criminal and heavily toward the circumstances of the crime.
  - Ravji v. State of Rajasthan (1995): A two-judge Bench erroneously held that the nature and gravity of the offense, not the circumstances of the criminal, were what mattered most in deciding the punishment.
    - Relying on this flawed legal principle, two men were executed in 1996 and 1997. Fourteen retired judges later termed these executions "the gravest known miscarriage of justice" in independent India.
- Restoring Reformation (2009): In Santosh Kumar Bariyar v. State of Maharashtra (2009) , the Supreme Court recognized the historical error.
  - The Court declared the Ravji judgment per incuriam (decided in ignorance of binding law) because it completely ignored the Bachan Singh guidelines.
  - The Court clarified that life imprisonment is only "unquestionably foreclosed" when the State can prove that the sentencing aim of reformation is unachievable.
- Institutionalizing Mitigation : Recognizing that trial courts were still sentencing people to death without investigating their backgrounds, the Supreme Court stepped in to formalize the collection of mitigating evidence.
  - Manoj v. State of Madhya Pradesh (2022): Mandated psychological, psychiatric, prison conduct and socio-economic background reports before imposing the death penalty.
- Elevating Due Process to a Constitutional Right (2025–2026): The Supreme Court has transformed the sentencing procedure from a mere statutory guideline into an enforceable fundamental right.
  - Vasanta Sampat Dupare v. Union of India (2025): The Court declared that a rigorous, individualized sentencing hearing strictly compliant with the Manoj guidelines flows directly from Article 14 (Equality before the law) and Article 21 (Right to life) of the Constitution.
    - A death sentence imposed without this rigorous hearing is unconstitutional and can be reopened even after the appeals process has ended.
  - Waris v. State of Madhya Pradesh (2026): While upholding a conviction for the brutal rape and murder of a child, the Supreme Court commuted the death sentence because the State failed to present evidence excluding the possibility of the convict's reformation.
    - The Court reinforced that the extreme gravity of a crime cannot, on its own, establish that life imprisonment is foreclosed.

World Day Against the Death Penalty

- Origin and Observance: Launched in 2003 by the World Coalition Against the Death Penalty (a global civil society network), the day is observed annually on 10th October to unite civil society, legal professionals, and policymakers in the fight against capital punishment.
- Thematic Approach: The initiative highlights a specific theme every two years to foster collective global reflection, raise awareness, and provide advocacy tools on distinct aspects of the death penalty.
- 2026 Theme: The theme for 2026 is "Stories for Life," which shifts the focus away from abstract statistics toward the individual people, families, and communities directly impacted by death row sentences.
- Core Human Rights Concerns: The abolitionist movement argues that capital punishment fundamentally violates human rights and human dignity .
  - Crucially, it is an irreversible punishment that carries a permanent risk of judicial error (miscarriage of justice) .
- Global Status: At the end of 2025, 145 countries had abolished the death penalty in law or practice (reflecting a strong global trend); thousands of individuals remain on death row, and several retentionist countries continue to carry out executions.

International Human Rights Framework

The abolitionist movement draws its legal and moral authority from several foundational human rights documents:

- Universal Declaration of Human Rights (UDHR, 1948): Article 3 guarantees the right to life, liberty, and security, while Article 5 strictly prohibits torture and cruel, inhuman, or degrading punishment.
- International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights (ICCPR, 1966): Article 6 protects the inherent right to life.
  - For countries that have not abolished the death penalty, the ICCPR restricts its application to only the "most serious crimes". India is a party to the ICCPR.
- Second Optional Protocol to the ICCPR (1989): This is the only universal international treaty explicitly aimed at the total abolition of the death penalty. India is not a signatory to this protocol .

What are the Persistent Challenges in the Current Sentencing System?

- Trial Court Non-Compliance: Despite clear apex court rulings, trial courts remain deeply crime-centric.
  - Of the 128 death sentences imposed in 2025, an analysis of 83 cases found that 79 cases (95.18%) failed to comply with the Manoj sentencing safeguards.
  - Muzaffarnagar Case (2026): An analysis of nine judgments involving 23 death sentences imposed by a Muzaffarnagar trial judge raised concerns about excessive reliance on the brutality of crimes and inadequate consideration of mitigating circumstances.

- Rushed Sentencing Hearings: A nationwide study of 306 death sentences (2018–2020) revealed that 36.1% were pronounced on the exact same day as the conviction , and 18.4% the following day, denying the defence any meaningful opportunity to present mitigating evidence.
- High Acquittal Rates on Appeal: Nearly one-third of death sentences reviewed by High Courts and the Supreme Court over the past decade have resulted in complete acquittals.
- Flawed Investigations: In 2025 alone, the Supreme Court acquitted the accused in 10 out of 19 death penalty cases it reviewed, repeatedly citing poorly conducted investigations, opaque confessions, and forensic evidence of "doubtful rigour."
  - A criminal justice system prone to investigatory errors cannot safely impose an irreversible punishment based solely on the public's emotional reaction to a crime.
- Socio-Economic Bias: The burden of capital punishment falls disproportionately on marginalized communities. Most death row inmates belong to economically vulnerable backgrounds and lack access to competent legal representation during the critical trial phase.

What Measures are Needed to Reform India's Capital Punishment Framework?

- 262nd Law Commission Report (2015): It recommended the abolition of the death penalty for all crimes except terrorism-related offenses and waging war against the State.
  - This aligns India with Article 6 of the ICCPR , which restricts capital punishment exclusively to the "most serious crimes" involving intentional lethal intent.
- Statutory Mitigation Infrastructure: India must create a state-funded cadre of independent Mitigation Specialists (social workers and psychologists).
  - This operationalizes the Manoj guidelines ensuring an accused's socio-economic, structural, and trauma history is investigated independently of the police.
- Executive Clemency & 'Death Row Syndrome': The agonizing delay in deciding mercy petitions causes "Death Row Syndrome".
  - India must give statutory backing to the Shatrughan Chauhan vs Union of India (2014) guidelines , enforcing transparent, binding timelines for the President and Governors to decide on Article 72 and 161 Mercy Petitions .
- Exemption for Severe Mental Illness: Aligning with the UN ECOSOC Safeguards and the UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (CRPD) .
  - The BNSS, 2023, must explicitly prohibit the sentencing or execution of individuals with severe mental health or intellectual disabilities.
- Intermediate Sentencing: Promote the consistent and principled use of alternatives to the death penalty, including imprisonment for the remainder of the convict's natural life without remission, where legally permissible.
  - In Waris v. State of Madhya Pradesh (2026), the Supreme Court adopted such an intermediate sentence while commuting the death penalty.

Conclusion

The constitutionality of the death penalty depends on procedural fairness, reformation opportunities and Article 21 safeguards, not retributive justice. India must strengthen mitigation frameworks and ensure sentencing remains guided by constitutional principles rather than public outrage to prevent irreversible miscarriages of justice.

Drishti Mains Question:

Should India move towards the abolition of the death penalty? Examine the arguments for and against abolition in the context of constitutional morality, human dignity and criminal justice reforms.

Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs)

1. What is the 'Rarest of Rare' doctrine in India?
Established in Bachan Singh v. State of Punjab (1980), it restricts the death penalty to exceptional cases where life imprisonment is unquestionably foreclosed.

2. Which constitutional provisions govern mercy petitions in India?
Article 72 empowers the President, while Article 161 empowers Governors to grant pardon, reprieve, respite or commutation.

3. What are the Manoj guidelines on death penalty sentencing?
In Manoj v. State of Madhya Pradesh (2022), the Supreme Court mandated psychological, psychiatric, prison conduct and socio-economic background reports before death sentencing.

4. What did the 262nd Law Commission Report recommend regarding capital punishment?
The 2015 report recommended abolishing the death penalty for all crimes except terrorism-related offences and waging war against the State.

5. Which international convention specifically seeks the abolition of capital punishment?
The Second Optional Protocol to the ICCPR (1989) aims at the total abolition of the death penalty. India is not a signatory.

2026 Binance Hack

Source: TH

Binance, the world's largest cryptocurrency exchange, suffered a massive cyberattack resulting in the loss of approximately USD 6.3 billion in digital assets. Surpassing the USD 1.5 billion Bybit hack of 2025, this incident is now recorded as the single largest cryptocurrency heist in history.

- Modus Operandi: The breach was executed via spear-phishing . A Binance engineer inadvertently downloaded a malware-laced code repository, compromising their laptop and granting attackers access to Binance's internal systems and "hot wallets" (internet-connected crypto wallets used for quick transactions).
  - Spear phishing is a targeted cyberattack where hackers send personalized, fake messages usually via email, text, or social media to trick a specific individual, group, or company into revealing sensitive data, sending money, or downloading malware .
- Targeted Assets: The hackers primarily targeted assets on the Ethereum , Bitcoin, Avalanche, and Polygon blockchains.
  - Binance mitigated the crisis by deploying its Secure Asset Fund for Users (SAFU) , an emergency reserve financed by trading fees alongside its own capital to restore 95% of stolen assets.
- Authorization of Stablecoins: To address fears of volatile, unbacked cryptos, policymakers should explore the authorization of stablecoins.
  - "Authorization of Stablecoins" refers to the government creating a legal framework t o officially permit and regulate cryptocurrencies that are pegged 1:1 to stable, real-world assets (like fiat currency or gold).
  - In practice, this means stablecoin issuers would be legally required to maintain transparent, audited reserves matching their token supply, comply with strict Anti-Money Laundering (AML) laws, and operate safely within the formal financial system.
